On the occasion of English Language Day on 23rd April, the Faculty of English & Modern Language held a weeklong celebration starting from April 24th to 29th to celebrate the importance and significance of the English Language and Literature. Students across the disciplines of Arts, Commerce, Management, and Science actively participated in all the events.

On the first day of the week-long festivities, 24th April, students presented charts and posters to visually communicate the facts of Shakespeare's life and his contribution to the English language. On the second day(25th) English Language Week, a PowerPoint presentation was conducted on the life and works of William Shakespeare, one of the most renowned playwrights in the English language. On the third day(26th) of the language week, various engaging language activities were conducted, including riddles, puzzles, and literary games. On the fourth day(27th) of English Language Week, Retro Rhythm was organized. Students enjoyed musical performances, both vocal and instrumental, including solo and group performances, related to retro music and culture. On the fifth day(28th) of English Language Week, students played the game 'Chambers of Secret.' The concluding day(29th) of English Language Week was exciting and memorable for everyone involved. The highlight of the day was the staging of William Shakespeare's tragedy, "Macbeth," by the students. The play showcased the talents of the students and their hard work, dedication, and commitment to delivering outstanding performances. After the play, there was a valedictory ceremony to mark the end of the successful week, with speeches, certificates and prize distribution, and recognition of the student's achievements.

The program's objective is to celebrate and promote awareness about the culture, history, and achievements related to the English language. Students could appreciate cultural diversity and understand the significance of this global and constantly evolving language.
