NATIONAL WORKSHOP

Computational linguistic tools are programs that perform operations on linguistic data, i.e., analyses, transformation or other tasks that add to or change language data or that assist people in performing such tasks.

The Department of Sanskrit had conducted a one-day workshop on 31st Jan.2020 in collaboration with Sanskrit Academy, Osmania University on "Computational Linguistic Tools". Students of Little Flower and Osmania University participated in this. Faculty from several colleges and other Sanskrit language lovers have also joined the workshop. Dr K. Neelakantham, director of Sanskrit Academy, Osmania University was the chief guest and the resource persons of this workshop were Dr K. Varalakshmi, deputy director of Sanskrit Academy & Dr Sanjeev Panchala Sanskrit lecturer in City college. The program was divided into three sessions. Opening ceremony started with the lighting of lamps and prayer. After that the chief guest addressed the gathering in which he included the importance of linguistic tools. Soon after that he was felicitated by our vice principal madam Smt. Jayanthi. Students very enthusiastically interacted with the chief guest and clarified their doubts regarding the tools and ancient language. After a short break, the first theoretical session was started by Dr K. Varalakshmi and the next practical session was continued by Dr Sanjeev Panchala. Valedictory done with the felicitation of both resource persons and national anthem. Participation certificates were issued to the participants for their active participation in the workshop.
