NATIONAL SCIENCE DAY CELEBRATIONS

On the occasion of National Science Day, Alan Turing Club has organized a seminar on "Science for Sustainability" for all the first, second, and third-year B.Sc. students on 28th February 2024. Approximately 150 students participated in the event. The guest speaker for the day was Dr. Malobika Karanjai, a senior scientist from ARCI in Hyderabad. The seminar's primary goal was to increase participants' enthusiasm for science studies and to help them recognize the value of science. In her speech, Dr. Malobika discussed the changes that have taken place in science over time. She also discussed her experience in developing materials using powder technology for various applications. Students gained insightful understanding of how combining several courses could lead to an idea that helps people improve their quality of life.

WEEKLY QUIZ

Alan Turing club organised a weekly quiz every Monday during this academic year. This weekly quiz included four key areas: Quantitative Aptitude, Logical Reasoning, Verbal Reasoning, and Current Affairs. The quiz aimed to assess participants' proficiency in these domains and provide insights into their analytical, critical thinking, and current affairs awareness skills. Students demonstrated commendable skills in drawing inferences from textual passages, and staying updated on current affairs beyond surface-level knowledge.
